

Meet your Health & Safety Committee

The activities of the committee aren't new. It's been featured previously in The B6 Flyer. But we wanted you to know a little bit about the members themselves, so we asked each one to write a short bio that we could share. Here they are:

Elizabeth Ortiz

Liz Ortiz is a New Jersey native who loved Luquillo Beach in Puerto Rico so much, she moved there! At sixteen years old, she attended Rutgers University and studied psychology and nursing. After her career at Northwest Airlines, she began JetBlue in 2009 and was an organizer and Base Lead in Fort Lauderdale during the TWU campaign. Liz loves dancing, especially Salsa Dancing. Her hobbies include feeding stray dogs and cats in Puerto Rico, reading and relaxing on the beach. She currently serves not only on the Health and Safety Committee, but also the Grievance Committee and the Professional Standards Committee.

Shane Rogers-Mauro

Chairman
A Louisiana native, Shane Rogers-Mauro started at Jet-Blue in February 2012 and served as the FLL Base Lead for years. He is the Health and Safety Committee chairman and an active member of the Legislative Affairs Committee. Shane has degrees in Pre-Med/Biology and Chemistry.

Shane began his flight attendant career in the early 1980's at Pacific Southwest Airlines, which later became USAir. He advocated for such items as the mandatory eight-hour rest for flight attendants and worked with the late Sen. Ted Kennedy on a clean air act for aircraft, effectively banning smoking on commercial flights. He was one of 38 flight attendants who sued "Big Tobacco" and won, with proceeds of the class action winnings creating the "Smoke Free America" campaign.

Anthony then accepted the position of Inflight Duty Lead. He returned to the line in 2017. When not flying the line, he enjoys traveling, cooking, gardening, yoga, and spending time with his family, friends, and partner.

Abigail Reyes

Abigail was born in the Philippines, calls Jacksonville home and lives in Orlando. She has degrees in Health and Counseling. Prior to JetBlue, she was base representative at another airline and is passionate about safety in all aspects of life. In her spare time, she enjoys swimming, Bikram yoga and painting.

Nick Campanile

Nick Campanile is a Chicago resident who joined United Airlines in 1986 in positions above, below and in-between the wings in various cities, including Chicago, Washington, DC and Baltimore. He also took temporary duty assignments in New York, Boston and San Francisco. After a brief break in 2013 from an "early out" offer, Nick rejoined the airline industry in June 2015 as a flight attendant based in Boston. Nick is passionate about making sure our Inflight Crewmembers return from trips whole, healthy and able to go out again. He is dedicated to ensuring that they are supported in these goals.

Anthony Falcone

A New York City native who grew up in a union family, Anthony believes in the unity and worker benefits union membership provides. He has a passion for helping others and served two Special Assignments at JFK assisting crewmembers with a variety of services. He became a full-time Inflight Team Leader, enabling him to advocate for crewmembers, facilitate new hire orientations, and work alongside a team of leaders, helping to prepare others to be their best in their careers. Curious about the intricacies of airline operations,

Oswald Torres

Oswald Torres was born and raised in New York but considers himself a citizen of the world. He loves to travel and explore new places. Oswald began his JetBlue journey in January 2008 and has held various positions at JFK both below and above the wing. He is also part of JetBlue's Care and Ready teams that serve our crewmembers and customers in time of need. Oswald has a passion to help others in any way he can, from feeding the homeless to just being a listening ear.
